DVAR TORAH — By Rabbi Dovid Lehrfield

In this week's Sedrah, Hashem predicts close to 100 misfortunes if we do not observe the Torah—the Tochacha. The Tochacha is read quietly. The Chofetz Chaim said, No—read it aloud—be aware of what happens if we do not observe the Torah.

PARSHA SUMMARY:

KI SAVO

SOURCE: CHABAD.ORG

Moses instructs the people of Israel: When you enter the land that G-d is giving to you as your eternal heritage, and you settle it and cultivate it, bring the first-ripened fruits (bikkurim) of your orchard to the Holy Temple, and declare your gratitude for all that G-d has done for you.

Our Parshah also includes the laws of the tithes given to the Levites and to the poor, and detailed instructions on how to proclaim the blessings and the curses on Mount Gerizim and Mount Eival—as discussed in the beginning of the Parshah of Re'eh. Moses reminds the people that they are G-d's chosen people, and that they, in turn, have chosen G-d.

The latter part of Ki Tavo consists of the Tochachah ("Rebuke"). After listing the blessings with which G-d will reward the people when they follow the laws of the Torah, Moses gives a long, harsh account of the bad things—illness, famine, poverty and exile—that shall befall them if they abandon G-d's commandments.

Moses concludes by telling the people that only today, forty years after their birth as a people, have they attained "a heart to know, eyes to see and ears to hear."

SHABBOS "INSPIRATION"

Ask yourself this valuable question: "What would my greatest role models say to me now?"

Think of different people you respect and admire, both people you now know and people you've known in the past. Think of people whose books you have read or whose recordings you have heard. Think of great people in the past that you now wish you could have learned from in person.

It's helpful if you write down a list of the names of these great teachers and role models. Now review your list and ask yourself about each one: "What are some of the main lessons this person would teach me?"

You can have many inspiring and enlightening self-conversations by imagining that the greatest people who ever lived were asking you questions. So ask yourself, "If so and so were to ask me an insightful question about myself and my life, what do I think he would ask me now?"

When you use your imagination and stored knowledge to have self-conversations with great people, you will find yourself having many meaningful and inspiring self-conversations about important topics and subjects.

HAFTORAH

ISIAH 60: 1-22

SOURCE: CHABAD.ORG

This week's Haftorah is the sixth of a series of seven "Haftarot of Consolation." These seven Haftarot commence on the Shabbat following Tisha b'Av and continue until Rosh Hashanah. In glowing terms the prophet recounts descriptions of what will unfold during the Redemption. Beginning with the resurrection of the dead and the ingathering of the exiles, continuing with the joy and abundance the Jewish people will then experience, as well as the gifts that will be brought to G-d from all of the nations of the world.

Finally, the Jewish nation will no longer be despised and derided, there will no longer be violence nor mourning, and G-d will shine His everlasting light on His people.

Parsha Questions:

1. What must the finder of a lost object do?
2. What is this mitzvah called?
3. What must one do if he wants to take chicks or eggs from a nest?
4. What is this mitzvah called?
5. What reward is mentioned in the Torah for sending away the mother bird?
6. What do we call the prohibition of not wearing clothing that has wool and linen woven together?
7. Is a man allowed to wear something that only women wear, or is a woman allowed to wear something that only men wear?
8. What did Miriam do and what happened to her?
9. Why must we always remember what happened to Miriam?
10. What are we commanded to remember at the end of the Parsha?

For the answers come up to groups.

Parsha thought to ponder:

POSITIVE FOCUS:

"you shall rejoice with all the goodness that Hashem has given you and your household"(26:11). We are actually commanded to rejoice. Later in the Parsha it talks about the blessings and curses/consequences if we don't follow the Commandments. Why and how should we be commanded to be happy? So often in life we look at our deficiencies versus what we have. And we magnify our deficiencies and think, if only we had blank blank blank then we would be happy, but the Torah is teaching us and we need to tell children that this is completely the opposite of the truth. We have to rise above our human nature. When we don't see all the blessings we have, we stop seeing Hashem. Our blessings go unnoticed and instead of thankfulness to Hashem, we just have complaints and unhappiness. We need to teach our children that the Torah is the greatest gift that we have and we have to count our blessings not deficiencies. If we could do this, we will have much more fun and happiness and our children will see and model this behavior also!

If your child is interested in being Shabbos aba or Ima or you have a grandchild or someone coming to visit from out of town that would like to be the Shabbos aba or Ima when they come, please let Amy know!
